

International EMECS Center

The International EMECS Center was established in 1994 as the organizing body of EMECS conferences which have been held regularly since EMECS 90, the first international conference held in Kobe, Japan in 1990.

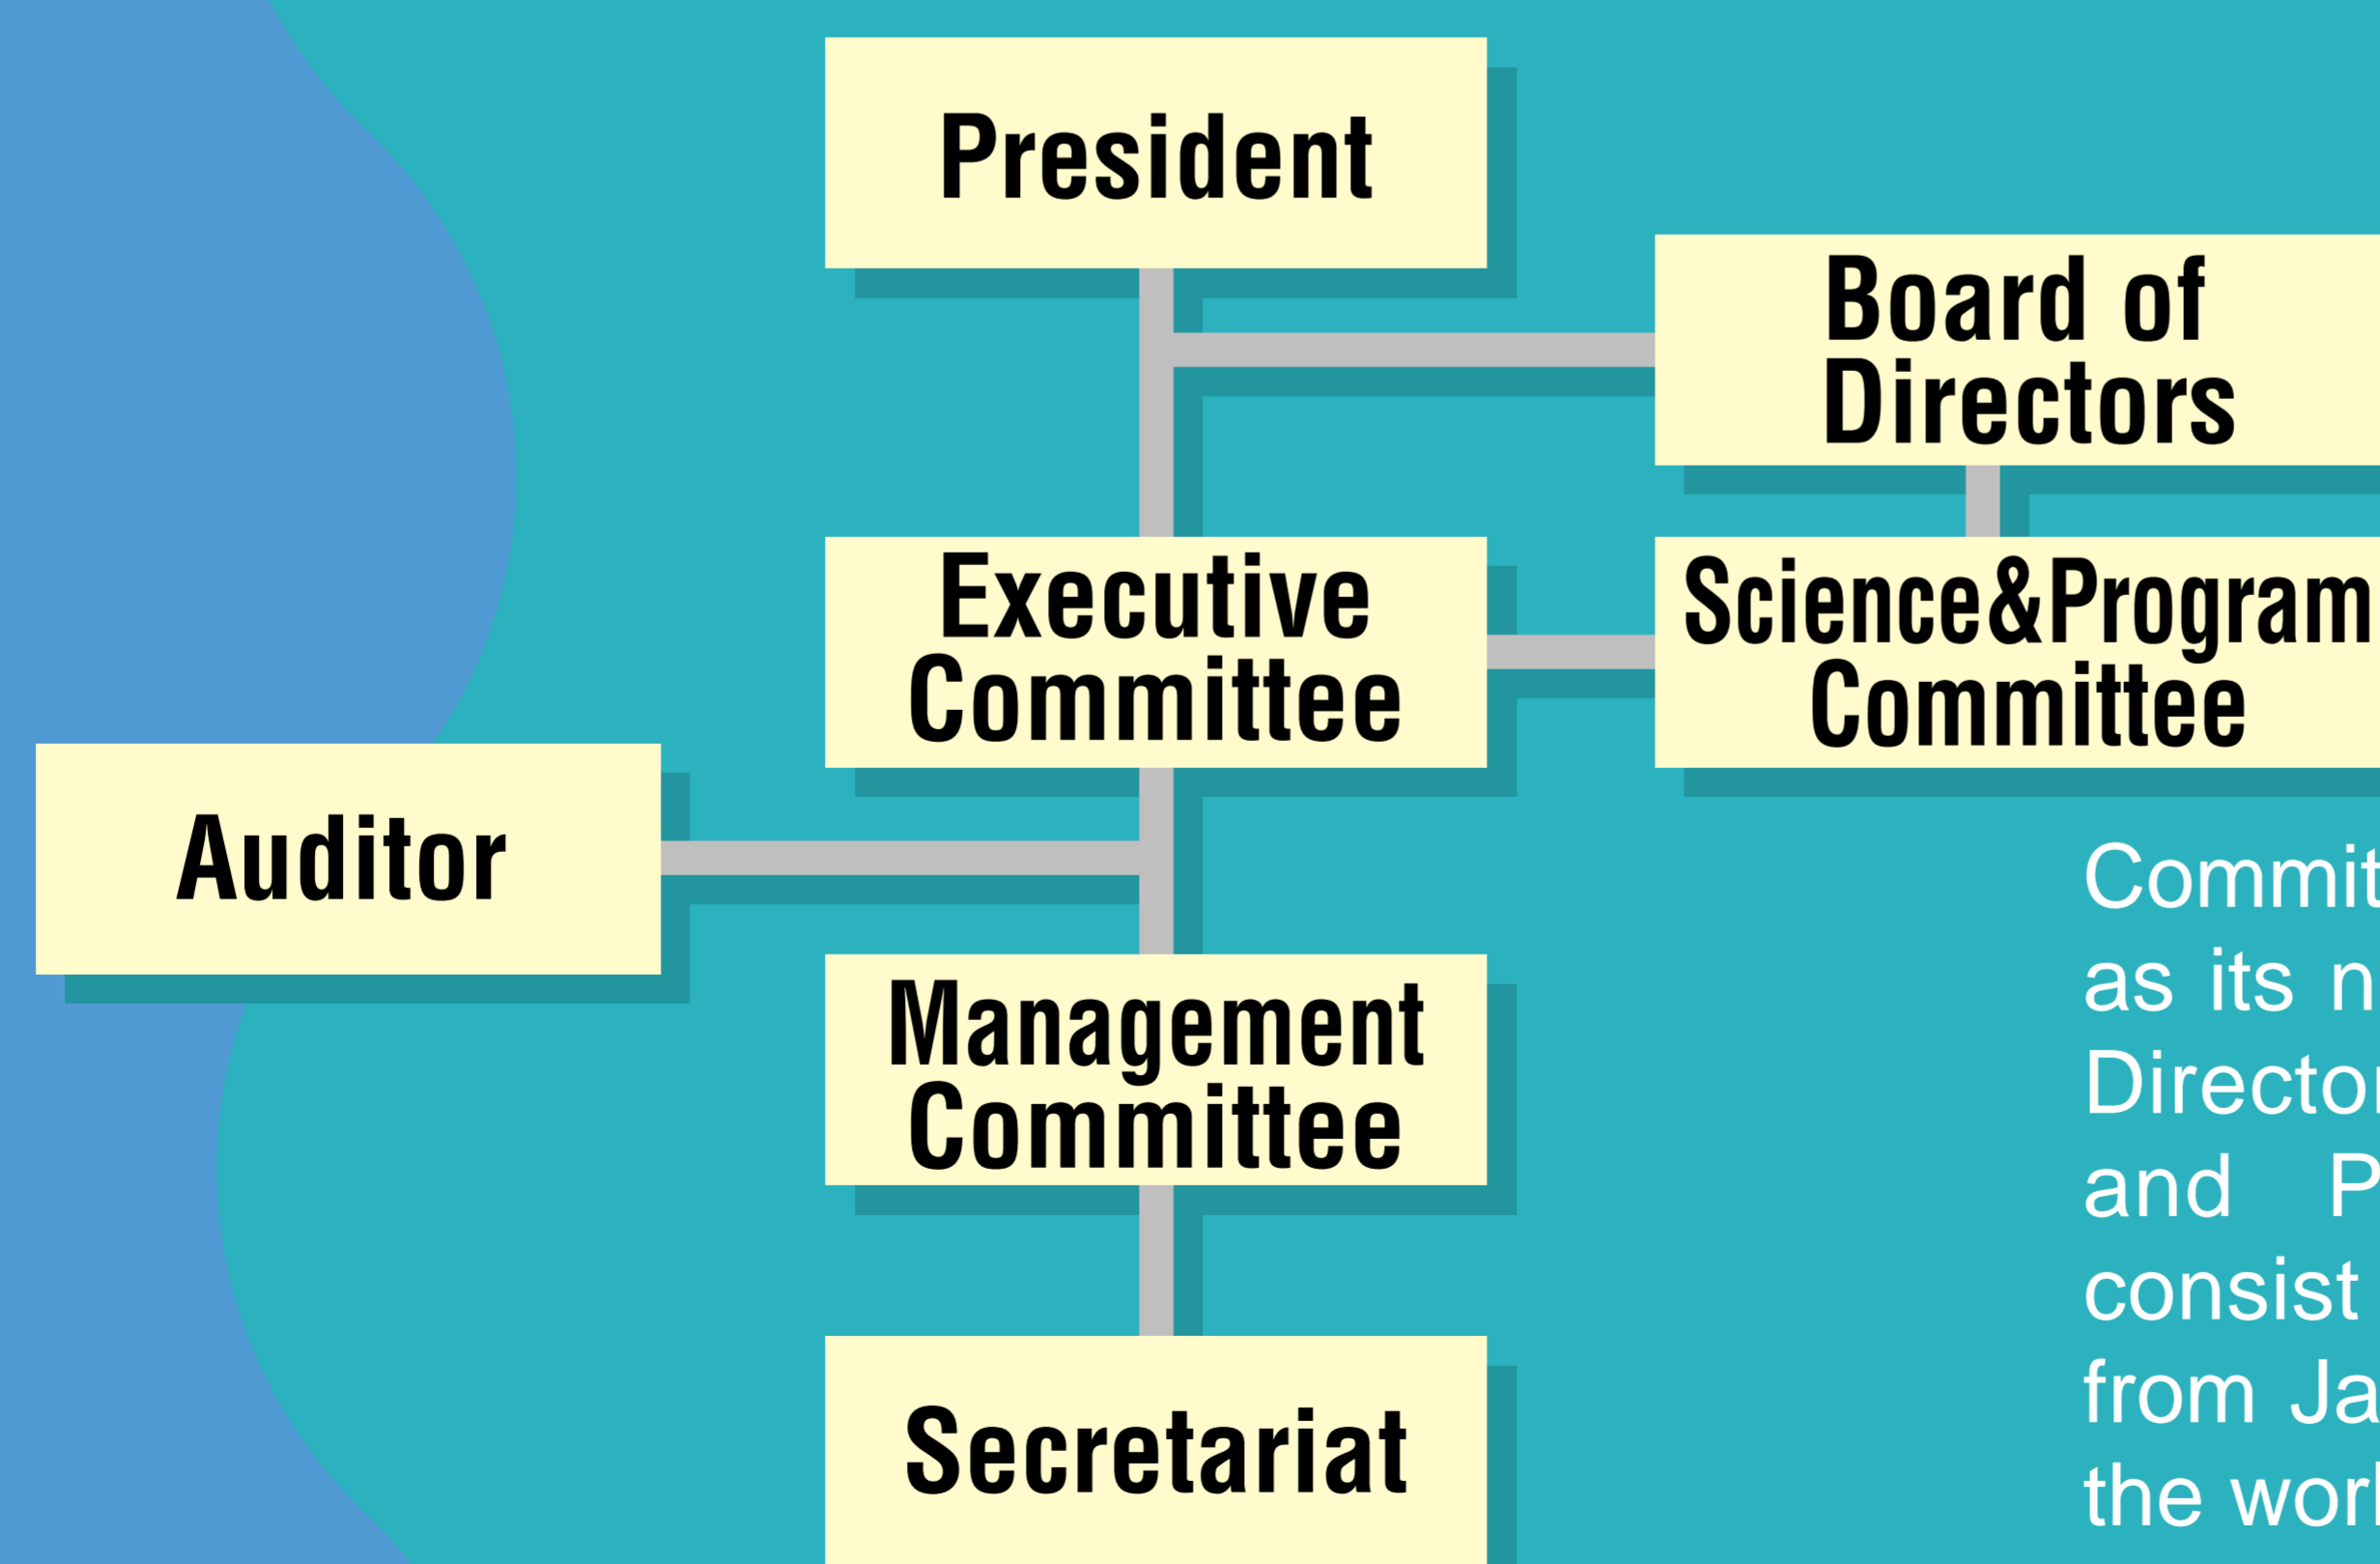

The Center supports EMECS activities, that is, the environmental management of enclosed coastal seas and promotes exchanges of information among researchers, citizens, NGOs, corporations and administrative bodies.

EMECS

Environmental Management of Enclosed
Coastal Seas

EMECS stands for Environmental Management of Enclosed Coastal Seas. This acronym is now internationally recognized representing the principle ideas of the field.

Organization

To enable the Center to function effectively as an internationally-oriented body, the Executive Committee has been set up as its nucleus. The Board of Directors and the Science and Program Committee consist of experts not only from Japan but from all over the world.
